BRUTALITY TO WOMEN IS TOLD OF

Lawrence Striker Testifies to Cruel Treatment by the Soldiers and Police

SAYS BOY WAS STABBED
IN BACK, DYING LATER

Committee to Hear Women
and Children—Strikers Still Refuse Advance

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Intimation of the value placed on the testimony of the Lawrence, Mass., strikers
by the House rules committee was given when the committee requested
Congressman Berger to wire to Lawrence asking that a portion of the women and children injured by the police and militia come to Washington to testify. The room was crowded this morning when the hearing
was resumed. Chairman Henry warned the speakers against any demonstrations. Chairman Wilson presented a letter signed by Governor Foss'
secretary stating that the Lawrence reports were exaggerated, denying that the police had clubbed women
and demanding the action of the police in not permitting children to leave the city.

Lawrence authorities received a blow when the committee ruled that the attorneys employed by the city would not be permitted to examine witnesses before the committee.
Samuel Lipson, a striker, resumed
his testimony, when asked if he witnessed the clubbing of women he said:
"I was in Russia during the revolution
but I never saw Cossacks behave toward women and children as the Lawrence soldiers did. I know the children were pushed about and struck with gun butts whenever they met the soldiers in the streets. I never saw a Cossack strike a child."

Lipson testified that four hundred Russian peasants in Lawrence will ask the Russian ambassador for relief
and other foreigners are planning the same.
"When the police club women about
the breasts," he said, "we think something should be done. I saw a little Syrian boy stabbed in the back when running from the soldiers who told him to move on. I saw a big hole in his back from which blood was pouring. He is dead now. There were many similar cases. If you were well dressed and met a soldier you could pass, otherwise you were struck and pushed about."

Here a committeeman asked if he could prove his assertions. "I can,"
replied Lipson. "Well, bring the women and children here that they may talk for themselves."

WORKERS STILL DEMAND
LARGER WAGE INCREASE
LAWRENCE, Mass., March 4.—Demanding a fifteen per cent wage increase, the striking textile workers
have refused to return to work under the smaller wage increases offered, when the mills opened this morning. Hundreds took their places in the picket lines. No violence was reported.

NEW YORK GARMENT MAKERS
ARE ON VERGE OF STRIKE
NEW YORK, March 4.—Garment
makers and union representatives are conferring. They probably will demand better wages and improved working conditions. Secretary Larger says two hundred and fifty thousand garment makers throughout the country are ready to strike unless the demands are granted.

A. J. WHITE'S CLAIM
OF BEING KIMMEL
REJECTED BY JURY
ST. LOUIS, March 4.—The jury today repudiated A. J. White's claim that he is George A. Kimmell, whose relatives are trying to collect life insurance. Although the jury's verdict was unanimous that White is an impostor it was unable to determine whether or not Kimmell was dead
before July 22, 1904, when the suit was filed, therefore was unable to return a verdict for the petitioning relatives.

Col. Roosevelt Accepted Jury Service Today

MINEOLA, L. I., March 4.—
Colonel Theodore Roosevelt refused to claim exemption from jury service but accepted service
of summons to appear, and was elected foreman of the jury
here today. He arrived in an automobile in response to summons served Saturday. County Judge Schultz had communicated with the Colonel telling he was exempt, since he had been an officer in the militia.
Remarking, "I am not looking for favors, and want to serve if it is my duty," Colonel Roosevelt took his seat with the other talesmen. He stared hard at talesmen who asked to be excused when their names were called. Roosevelt was given permission to not report until Wednesday on account of personal engagements.

CASUALTIES HEAVY IN BATTLE OF YESTERDAY
EL PASO, March 4.—Late last night, after a terrific all-day battle,
during which the casualties were heavy, the conflict between the federal and revolutionary forces at Chihuahua continued unabating, with only a twenty-minute pause about 7 o'clock in the evening, following which the sky was frequently illuminated by explosives and an almost continuous fusillade of rifle and cannon shots was begun.

The principal news of the fighting
was received in dispatches to Juar-Terrazas, one of the wealthy Chihuahua refugees here.
The telegram stating that fighting
for the possession of Chihuahua
City had begun, was followed yesterday by the hasty departure of the rebel garrison at Juarez to join their comrades in the fight.

Further reinforcements for Gen.
Orozco are en route. Gen. Maximo Castillo, with four hundred men, is coming from Villa Ahumada, and Coy. Braulio Fernandez, with three hundred, from the west. Both are expected before night.
Fighting has been continuous since
Gen. Villa wrested the city from Orozco Sunday night. Telegraphic communication has been disrupted
and accurate estimates of the casualties or word of how the battle is progressing is impossible.

Six Mexican rebels, heavily armed,
attempted to cross into El Paso to-

BANK NOW IN ELEGANT HOME

Orange County Savings Bank
Occupied Its Banking
Quarters Today

ALL SUITES OF THE
UPPER FLOOR LEASED

Architect Train Gives Description of the Structure
Just Finished

Today the doors opened for the Orange County Savings Bank in the new trust building on West Fourth street between Main and Sycamore.
For a month or more the bank will continue under the name now used.
After that it will be the Orange County Savings and Trust Company,
the first institution of its kind in Orange County.

The bank's splendid new banking quarters has been visited by dozens today who have admired its numerous attractions. Entrance into the place of business gives one the impression of a place of affairs. Its ceiling is gorgeous and rich in appearance, while the marble facings and mosaic floor add a substantial finished appearance to an elegant interior.
The bank is modern throughout,
and fitted up for the growth of the bank along with the growth of the city.

When the savings bank is merged
into the savings and trust company,
the capital stock will be $300,000,
of which $255,100 will be paid up. The bank now has a surplus of $62,000.
The bank management has watched every detail of the structure's building, and the architect has been down two or three times a week. A.
C. Bick, the contractor, has expended no end of faithful thought and effort upon his work.

The second floor is in office suites,
all of which have been leased out.
Attorneys E. E. Keech and S. M. Davis
have the rear suites. Attorney
H. C. Head has a front suite with G.
W. Minter, and Dr. Whitson has another fine suite.

The foundation and steel beams are such that should the time come that a building of four or five stories is advisable, the foundation and beams
will take the additional stories without danger.

The bank will give a public reception next Saturday afternoon and evening.
The directors of the bank are C.
Andre, W. A. Zimmerman, C. E.
Lamme, A. B. Gardner and E. E.
Keech and the officers are W. A. Zimmerman,
president; C. E. Lamme,
first vice president; A. B. Gardner, second vice president; F. W. Winslow, cashier, and H. R. Andre, assistant cashier.

Robert E. Train of the firm of Train and Williams, architects, dictated the following description of the building:
"The building is 40x100 feet. The first floor is occupied by bank and the second story, approached by marble stairs, contains eleven offices, with modern appointments such as good lighting, electric light, steam heat
and lavatory accommodations with hot and cold water in each room.
Each office is well lighted from the outside from the alley in the rear
and the light court which is 12x25
feet.

"The materials of the banking room
finish are American encaustic mosaic
tile, floor on a concrete base, ornamented with a Greek border following
the contour of the walls and fixtures.
The five interior columns are covered with concrete scagliola and imitation Sienna marble. The walls and fixture coverings are of English veined Alaskan marble. The ceiling is ornamented
in staff with ornamented members.
The beams, panels and column capitals are decorated in oils by a first-class decorator, imported from New York.

"The values are 12x32 feet divided into two compartments, one for the bank proper and one for the safety deposit system. The walls, foundations, floors and roof of the bank
are constructed to be thoroughly
fire-proof and burglar-proof by means of 60-pound steel rails running
in opposite directions, close together and immersed in concrete. The vault doors and the safety deposit boxes
are of the latest improvement and specie. The rear of the bank contains a room for customers, ladies' lavatory
with necessary accommodations and accommodations for bank purposes.

Latest Developments In Congressional Situation

(From the Riverside Press)

WILL WRESTLE WITH PROBLEM

Republican County Committee
Will Meet to Consider Congressional Situation—Suggestion is Made That County Convention Be Recon-vened to Discuss the Matter.

Notices were sent out today
for a meeting of the Republican County committee at the Y.M.C.A. hall next Friday at 10 a. m. The purpose of the meeting is to consider the congressional situation in this county and the meeting was called at the suggestion of Messrs. Phelps, Carnahan and Clarke, who have made the following statement with reference to the matter:

"We have received a letter
on the congressional situation
signed by E. E. Keech, J. P.
Baumgartner and E. R. Amerige of Orange County, who state that they are acting as a committee representing over 50 per cent of the leading progressive Republicans of that county.

"In this letter they say:
"In a word, our attitude
is that we concede the congressional nomination to Riverside County, provided that
the progressive Republicans of Riverside County shall unite
on some capable man who is a pronounced and full-fledged
progressive Republican, whose personality, character, training and general ability insure his success at the polls and his efficiency in congress. Unless such a candidate shall be offered by Riverside, we feel that it is our duty to unite with
the progressive Republicans of
the other counties in the district in support of such a candidate from some other county, and preparations are being made for that alternative.

"We feel confident that failure of Riverside County
progressives to unite on a candidate who would be satisfactory to Orange and Imperial counties could not but prove seriously harmful to the cause
of true progressive Republicanism; and that the presentation by Riverside County of

baseament is large and contains a low pressure steam boiler of capacity sufficient to heat four or five adjacent buildings as well as the bank building. The materials for the front facade are raised, cream-colored terra
cotta for the walls, columns, bases
capitals, architrave and cornice green closed terra cotta for the roof for
the roof granite base, for the columns
verde-antique, ornamental iron bank fronts and marquis, the latter are roofs with ornamental art glass.
The rear windows and doors of the building are properly protected with iron gratings.

"The style of architecture for the front of the building is Italian Renaissance, with Roman Corinthian detail."

THE STAGE." ANNIE
YEAMANS, DEAD

NEW YORK, March 4.—Mrs Annie Yeamans, known as the "grand old lady of the stage," died at her apartment in the Hotel Gerard here last night, a victim of paralysis. She was in her 77th year, and her last appearance on the stage was in vaudeville
at Lynn, Mass., January 13 last.
The funeral services will be held in The Little Church Around the Corner.

any candidate of questionable
political proclivities and relationships—f from the progressive point of view—would prove positively disastrous to our cause.

"In view of the fact that we have two, and possibly more, avowed candidates from this county, we are unwilling to assume any responsibility
to represent the sentiment of the county as to which one they would prefer to support. We have therefore requested that a meeting of the Republican County committee be called to consider the situation. Our impression is that it would be wise to re-convene the last
county convention, and give
that large and representative
body an opportunity to pass on the entire proposition. We do not, however, assume to influence in any way the decision of the committee, but trust the members, after due deliberation, will take such action as will promote the harmony and best interests of the Republican party in this county.

"S. C. EVANS, CANDIDATE
FOR CONGRESS IN THE
NEW ELEVENTH DISTRICT

[Under the above headline, the Register received, Saturday night
through the mail the following announcement.]

My policies and beliefs are those of Governor Johnson expressed in this state and as expressed in the nation
by Theodore Roosevelt. I am for power in the hands of the people for direct legislation by them. I am for the initiative, referendum and recall
and as chairman of our Charter Board of Freeholders in 1907 I publicly advocated these provisions. I am for the conservation of our water and keeping it and the water power for the use of the people. I am for the conservation of our forests and mines
and in favor of water storage such as the Roosevelt Dam, whose dedication
I attended and where I heard Mr.
Roosevelt's magnificent speech showing the good that such enterprises
can do in placing land within the reach of all for cultivation. I believe in the same laws for everybody
and in a quick application of them
and in a more economical method of their use by the average person seeking relief. I believe in the protection of our citrus fruits and in the work
the government has and is doing pertaining thereto. I have had years of citrus fruit experience, having for a number of years grown and shipped yearly from 75 to 100 cars, and I have kept in touch with the more recent improvements affecting same. Water and water rights have been my business since 1889 continuously. I believe in the people having a suitable
amount of pleasure and direct benefits
from government, and I have advocated, worked for and am now seeing the realization in my own city of modern park and play ground, made for use; good libraries and modern school, where I served for twelve years as secretary of the board. I believe in the good roads movement.
I have been instrumental in building
several miles of them in my own city.
I believe that the will of the people should be supreme and that we should have just laws allowing such expression.

CITRUS RETURNS
HAVE BEEN LARGE
Experts Report Orange and Lemon Shipments Greater
Than Same Date Last Year
LOS ANGELES, March 4.—Returns from orange and lemon shipments from Southern California have been larger to date this year than
for the same period last year, according to the statement today of citrus experts. This, they say, has been accomplished in spite of frosts
and much undersized fruit. The returns from the frosted and undersized fruit has been little more than sufficient to pay packing and shipping charges, it is stated, but the aggregate, the experts say, is satisfactory.

SHANGHAI, March 4.—The Republican troops have mutinied throughout the provinces of Anhui, Kiangsi, Shensi, and they are killing, looting and terrorizing the country. Hundreds are reported as massacred.

The situation at Peking is reported
as quiet but the police are deserting and a further outbreak is feared. Tien Tsin dispatches state that the Manchu
troops have partially restored order.
Two hundred American marines start to Tien Tsin tonight.

TIENTSIN TERRORIZED
WITH FIRE AND LOOTING TIENTSIN, March 4.—Twenty
fires are raging in different sections of this city. Hundreds of Peking
mutineers are hourly expected to arrive here and the situation is perilous. All foreigners have barricaded their homes. Armed civilian guards are patrolling the foreign quarter.

TIENTSIN IN HANDS
OF MOB LAST NIGHT
TIENTSIN, March 4.—Tien Tsin,
at the mercy of mobs of disgruntled
soldiers, seemed doomed last night.
The torch was applied and great
fires swept both sides of the river.
Property valued at seven million dollars was destroyed. No respect was shown to foreigners. One German Physician was killed.

Fearing an attack on the foreign settlements last night, the consular body late yesterday placed the entire situation in the hands of the military commanders.
The soldiers joined the rabble in looting the houses and stores, keeping up a rattling gun fire throughout the night to intimidate the inhabitants. Only a few of the native police remained loyal. The mob made little demonstration against foreigners.

The Per Yang mint was broken into by the rioters, and the strong rooms looted.

THREE THOUSAND FOREIGN
TROOPS AWE PEKIN RIOTERS
PEKIN, March 4.—Awe by the presence of three thousand foreign troops, the rebels are quiet today.
The fires over the city are almost extinguished. Scores of rioters are being executed.

Major Arrowsmith, commanding
two hundred American troops, has arrived, and is encamped near the American legation. There are several companies of troops here.

FOREIGN SOLDIERS REACH
PEKIN ON PATROL DUTY
PEKIN, March 4.—With the influx
of foreign troops the situation in Peking became more favorable yesterday, and it is believed tonight
that the mutineers will attempt no
further violence within the city.
Eight hundred foreign troops reached the city early Sunday morning
and were at once detailed to patrol duty.

JAP FISHERMEN

Catch Made in Less Than Six Hours
Off Santa Monica by Eight Fishermen—Record Broken

SANTA MONICA, March 4.—More
than three thousand dollars' worth of yellowtail were caught at the long wharf yesterday morning by eight Japanese fishermen. The catch was made in less than six hours. The fishermen used only hook and line, with live bait. The record breaking-catch was made by J. Ogura and O. Kuki, who operate a fishing smack, with six other fishermen. This breaks all previous records for the number of fish caught at this beach in one day
by hook and line. The fishermen were almost exhausted from their exertions, and their arms were numb.

This is the all important week, the week that will decide the winner. The Contest Editor has been advising you for nearly seven weeks to do your best, and to be the exceptional one. Now Candidates, it is up to you to decide which one of you will ride home in the Big $100,000 E-M-F, Touring Car that has been so eagerly sought for by all of you.

Get back into the traces of constant hustling that was so eminent during the former days of this contest. Drill into your system that you can get just as many subscribers as you did the first week of the triple vote offer. Tell your friends who have promised you their subscriptions that this is the last opportunity that you will have to call on them and get extra votes for their subscriptions. They have promised you their subscriptions and they intend giving them to you, but as is the case in all walks in life they want to hold back—some of them because they were not able to give their subscriptions before—others because they want to see if you really mean business and if they are giving their subscriptions to a candidate who is going to stay with the battle until the last gun is fired.

Start out with renewed energy tomorrow and work hard the rest of this week for both NEW AND OLD, ONE, TWO AND FIVE YEAR SUBSCRIPTIONS while the big double vote offer is in effect.
Constant hustling like this from now until eight o'clock Saturday night March 9th, will make a decided difference in your standing when the judges have completed the count of votes.

BALLOT BOX NOTES
Mrs. Sam Preble gained five points in today's standing; she goes from tenth to fifth place, having gained 120,940 votes.

Mrs. J. Leslie Swope of Anaheim clings close to the ROYAL SEAT; she increased her vote totals 102,560, gained four points and now holds second position in the entire contest.
Miss Lula McKenzie gained 1355 votes, but the heavy polling of Mrs. Swope forced her into third position.
Miss Edith Stearns of Tustin, helped to crowd the ballot box by polling 69,345 votes, and advanced her standing one point.

Miss Pauline Jacobs now holds fourth position. A number of other candidates increased their totals materially.

Candidates all! Here is a real opportunity to get votes on renewal subscriptions as well as new. Until next Saturday night, March the 9th, you can get double votes over the old schedule for renewal subscriptions. Look at the vote schedule printed in a full page advertisement published in today's Register. Here is a chance to make another campaign and poll up a big vote. People have been taking the Register for years and they would just as soon pay up another year or two now in your favor. They will pay up anyway, and you may as well make the collections and get the votes. Go after them.

To Make New Harbor On Site of An Old

Government Recognizes Newport Bay, Once a Port, to Extent of Ordering Preliminary Survey, and the People There Say They'll Do the Rest to Get Panama Canal Shipping.

The Los Angeles Times yesterday contained a front-page article on Newport Harbor, showing that the work of surveying the bay to establish harbor lines will soon begin. The Times said:

Within two weeks preliminary work is to be begun on the building of another harbor contiguous to Los Angeles. The government has recognized the Newport Beach harbor project and has ordered a preliminary survey. This inland bay which was once a port for many deep-water ships will be rejuvenated, dredged and wharved.

Although the government has merely appropriated $2500 for a survey, and has ordered it to be made at once, the harbor boosters of Newport say that once the federal engineers show them how they will build the harbor with bond issues if the government refuses further aid. They figure that it will be more economical for ships coming through the Panama Canal to enter their harbor and discharge upon cars of three railroads for Los Angeles than to proceed to San Pedro or Long Beach and from there ship cargoes to the city. To Los Angeles from the south by way of San Pedro or Long Beach is two miles further, they calculate.

Now that the government has answered the plea of the Newport Beach business men and granted a preliminary survey, the people there declare they will place upon the map of Southern California as fine and large a harbor as that of Long Beach, if not larger. In the event of the Rivers and Harbors committee of the House declining to place an appropriation in the next budget to complete dredging and jetty building,

Newport will construct jetties at the harbor mouth 1200 feet long, build miles of wharves, and dredge the inner bay. The mouth of Newport Bay, although now but five feet deep at low tide, will not need dredging, the bay people declare. Once the jetties are built the strong scour into and out of the harbor will itself dredge the entrance to a depth of thirty feet. There are seven square miles of navigable water inside the bay.

Santa Ana May Dredge
Santa Ana and other contiguous Orange county cities see in the action of the War Department a boost for them. The upper end of the bay is but five miles from the county seat. The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce is working upon plans to dredge the lowlands which lie between the bay's end and Santa Ana to give that city water frontage. This would greatly lower freight rates and be a boon to the rich agricultural districts in that section.

Lew H. Wallace, president of the Bank of Newport, and a director of the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce, has worked indefatigably for six years on the harbor project, and the government's decision to make the preliminary survey is attributed mainly to his efforts. He has twice been in Washington fighting for the survey. President W. W. Wilson, and Secretary Charles H. Wallace of the Newport Beach Chamber of Commerce, W. K. Parkinson and the trustees of the town, have also worked hard for the same end.

There are at present two railroads entering Newport Beach—the Pacific Electric and two steam lines of the Southern Pacific. Four miles north of the north end of Newport Bay the Santa Fe reaches. All three companies have signified their intentions to build tracks to the docks.

The tidelands in the vicinity of Balboa Island and northeast of Newport Beach are to be converted into warehouse and factory sites and places for homes when dredging is completed. There are now two dredgers in operation in the lower end of the harbor filling residence sites. Private companies are doing this work.

The inner shores of the bay proper consist of mud averaging 100 feet in height. These it will be impracticable, at present, to reduce for wharf building. At the upper end of the bay marshes stretch away for five or six miles. It is at the lower end of the inland body of water that many thousands of dollars are to be expended in building the docks.

Port of Other Days
Newport Beach was once a port of some importance. In 1873 ships of 300 tons discharged at the Newport wharf. In 1889, immediately following the purchase of the Newport Beach wharf from James McFadden by the Southern Pacific railroad, 1892 carloads of freight were discharged from 133 steamers and nineteen sailing vessels. Prior to this, small steamers entered the bay and discharged their cargoes at high tide at Newport Landing, about two miles above the inlet. Nothing remains of the wharves at that point but unsightly brown pile stubs. With the improvement of Los Angeles Harbor, the shippers gave the old port the go-by.

Since Newport Beach has become known as a harbor town the country immediately adjacent has developed into farming lands having a valuation per acre probably as great as any similar area of country in the United States. Beet lands are worth $1000 an acre, and walnut and orange land goes at from $1500 to $2500 per acre.

The city of Newport Beach owns 4400 feet of valuable water frontage on Newport Bay. This is to be developed into docks free to all shipping. The Irvine Company and La Habra Valley Land & Water Company offer to donate more frontage in the event jetties are built.

The water just inside the harbor is at present thirty-five feet deep at low tide, and this depth grows less until at the upper end of the bay the depth is six feet. Just outside the shallow entrance to the bay there is an ocean canyon at least 160 feet deep. This canyon is expected to receive and carry away through the agencies of the strong coastwise scours the sands at the entrance once the jetties are built.

Santa Ana is planning to annex a "shoestring strip" from the southerly limits of the city to Newport Bay in order that she may be a seaport city, as is Los Angeles. The Newport Beach harbor project has been endorsed by the Chamber of Commerce and commercial organizations of all the cities in Orange county, and by Pomona, Riverside, Redlands, Ontario, San Bernardino and other cities of the citrus belt which profess to see in the development of the Newport Beach harbor a means to get their product to market more economically than by the present routing.

AVOID HARSH DRUGS

Many Catholics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their action is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall's Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing, and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odorless, tasteless, and colorless. Combined with other well-known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. They may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvenience whatever. They do not gripe, purge, nor cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons, and aged people, as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in three size packages, 12 tablets, 19 cents; 36 tablets, 25 cents; 80 tablets, 50 cents. Remember, you can obtain them only at our store—The Rexall Store. Wheeler & Mateer, 194 West Fourth St.

SUBMIT QUESTION OF LIQUOR LICENSE

Newport News: At a special meeting of the board of trustees held Monday afternoon a motion by Trustee Barton carried without opposition that the question of "Shall the Sale of Alcoholic Liquors be Licensed in the City of Newport Beach," be placed on the ballot.

This is in conformity with the Wyllie local option law and required a petition of 25 per cent. of the voters to get it on the ballot. Six more than the required number signed the petition, if a majority voting at the municipal election on April 8th vote "NO" it will mean that the present liquor ordinance is abrogated and that the sale of liquor must be stopped immediately both wholesale and retail and that no table or hotel license can be granted for a period of two years, this being the time prescribed before the question can again be submitted to the people.

Another proposition that will be placed on the ballot will be whether or not the trustees shall receive compensation for their services. No figure was set at this meeting but the compensation will be fixed before the ordinance is finally passed on Monday night.

At Monday night's meeting an ordinance will also be passed fixing the salaries of the city clerk and city treasurer for the ensuing term. It is probable that some arrangement will be made whereby a man will be at the city hall all the time during business hours for the convenience of the public.

It was also voted to advertise for bids for boring a new well, the protracted dry spell having made the supply of water in the Newport Beach water works run low.
Marshal Albert Hermes with the assistance of Jake Souder and Earnest Cumberland has been blasting out the stub piles left by J. H. Sharps when he removed the foundation of the old Peabody bath house. The stubs are about eighty feet in the ground and no attempt is being made to remove all of them, but they are blown off about two feet below the present low level of the sand. The stubs being water soaked, are very tough and to remove them an auger hole is bored in to a depth of ten inches in which a stick of dynamite is inserted. Another stick is put alongside the pile and the two shot with a fuse. None of the stubs have been blown clear of the sand but they are so badly shattered that they can be removed in places.

THE COST OF GAS

It appears that the reports of the Southern Counties Gas Company justifying the rates it is charging for gas—at least such report has been made by those who investigated the matter for Fullerton, Anaheim, Orange and Santa Ana.

But aside from that question is the question of what gas ought to cost consumers if they owned a modern up-to-date, economically managed plant of their own—such a plant as the cities of Orange county might own co-operatively under expert salaried management.

For instance: Stanford, England, a city of 25,000 inhabitants, owns its own gas plant, and has owned it for 33 years. The highest price for lighting gas is 65 cents per 1000 feet. The average all around price paid after all discounts is 37 cents per thousand feet. The gross receipts during its last year were $162,899, and the expenses $39,930. Since the city took over the gas plant it has reduced its bonded indebtedness from $550,673 to $182,189, reduced tax levies by $286,019, and set aside a reserve fund for reconstruction. It is hardly necessary to add that the gas plant is not operated by officials chosen by popular vote. It is run by a separate corporation and pays taxes, but although it is owned by the city, its operation is in the hands of expert gas men. Its balance sheet is exactly like that of any privately owned gas plant, so that no juggling covers up any of the expense to make a lower cost showing. In this case municipal ownership, properly regulated, pays handsomely.

CATCHING UP WITH ROOSEVELT

By JUDSON C. WELLIVER in Mnusey's Magazine

In the three years since Theodore Roosevelt retired from the Presidency, public opinion, intelligence, and conscience have been "catching up with Roosevelt."

I am going to compare some of the prophecies of evil that greeted his policies with the benefits that have flowed from their crystallization into law. I shall point out some of the notable cases in which Roosevelt, though not a lawyer, proved wiser than some of the best lawyers. I shall show wherein his judgment of the Constitution and its limitations was more accurate than that of statesmen who had set themselves up as the very keepers of the ark of the constitutional covenant.

By all means the greatest monument to Mr. Roosevelt's efforts for reform is the Dilliver-Hepburn Railroad Act. As early as 1901 he began urging the need of such legislation, which he declared in his message that "the power of the Interstate Commerce Commission should be made thoroughgoing, so that it could exercise complete supervision and control over the issue of securities as well as over the raising and lowering of rates."

The Congressional session of 1905-1906 was given over largely to consideration of the Dilliver-Hepburn measure. It finally became law on June 29, 1906, and has therefore been in effect nearly six years. In the beginning, such legislation was scouted by railroad and financial interests. Today, it would be impossible to organize a respectable support among these same elements for a proposal to repeal the measure. It has ended rate wars, steadied traffic conditions, put a stop to unregulated and injurious competition; has largely quieted the popular outcry against railway management, and has put securities on a sound basis than ever before.

The Fight Against a Good Bill
All these things are today of common knowledge. But when Mr. Roosevelt began agitation for the law he met the most stubborn resistance. When his followers urged measures along these lines the controlling powers in Congress smothered them. It was not until Roosevelt had persistently appealed to public opinion, and finally brought it into step with his policies, that the old Cannon machine in the House yielded and passed the bill. When the collapse finally came the opposition went completely to pieces, and the House was well-nigh unanimous for the measure.

But this only meant that the responsibility had been shifted to the Senate. The Aldrich-Hatch machine was relied upon to save the day that its allies in the House had lost.

Accordingly, the bill was referred to the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, which held it an unreasonably long time. Most of the Republicans on the committee were flatly opposed to reporting it. Senator Dilliver, its real author; Senator Clapp, of Minnesota; and Senator Cullom, of Illinois, were the only friendly Republicans. The others—Senators Aldrich, of Rhode Island; Keim, of New Jersey; Foraker, of Ohio; Crane, of Massachusetts; and Elkins, of West Virginia—held out against the bill.

For dreary week after week it seemed certain that the committee would refuse to report the measure at all, and that it would die an inglorious death by asphyxiation in the committee. Such a fate had often been meted out to bills which the powers dared not openly kill, yet would not allow to live. But there was a new factor to be reckoned with: Roosevelt in the White House was mightily in earnest. He had come to the crisis of his career. To lose now was to lose all. He must break the Senate machine, as he had broken that of the House, or it would be master, not he.

So he went at the fight with all his power. He appealed to the country. He reasoned with men who were honestly opposed. He showed the railroad managers that it was better to accept moderation when it was offered than to fight it off and dam up a tide of public opinion which would finally overwhelm them in a deluge. He imparted his energy to his loyal friends in the committee, and at length they won the first victory. The Democrats and the three friendly Republicans forced the bill out without any report. The opposition, in order to injure its standing before the Republican Senate, directed Senator Tillman, a Democrat, to make the report, instead of Senator Dilliver. At the time, the Tories esteemed this a marvelously clever coup, but its actual effect was to whet popular indignation and to strengthen the demand for the measure.

Roosevelt now had his fight out in the daylight, where the country could watch it, where his enemies were at their greatest disadvantage.

The Constitutional Bugbear
Instantly the opposition changed its tactics. It began to fight the form of the legislation; to discover fatal defects; to worry about the Constitution and the attitude of the courts. When the bill came before the Senate, Mr. Aldrich, as leader, proclaimed his policy thus: "A majority of the Republican members of the committee did not join in favor of the report, for the reason that, in their judgment, an attempt should have been made to remedy obvious and admitted defects. Clear and adequate provision should have been made for subjecting the orders of the commission to judicial review."

Senator Foraker, of Ohio, a great lawyer and a leading force in the Senate, opposed all governmental rate-making whatever. He declared that this legislation was "so contrary to the spirit of our institutions, and of such drastic and revolutionary character, that the consequences are likely to be most unusual and far-reaching." He said that Congress did not have the power to do the thing which the bill proposed, and that it was most fortunate for the country that it did not. There was no necessity for such legislation, and it "had not one line in it that afforded any remedy whatever against the greatest and most serious evils that have been mentioned. If it does not fail and perish in the courts," he went on, "experience will shortly demonstrate the utter impracticability of rate-making by a commission." He predicted ruin to the railroads if the legislation should pass.

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, declared that "a careful study of the railroad situation where government control obtains will show the evils resulting, and force the belief that governments cannot make rates that will meet the needs of trade and industry."

Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, a very alert watchdog of the Constitution, declared:

"Many others think that the pending measure is in more than one respect of doubtful constitutionality. To my heart, I think I may justly say that many of us regard it as unconstitutional in one or two important particulars."

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, described the essential feature of the bill "as a direct assault upon the Constitution. It cannot succeed," he added, "unless it can ride down or evade the express provisions of the Constitution which define and protect the judicial powers of the courts, and all its important provisions are framed for this purpose."

That was the terrifying argument to which the measure's opponents were always turning. A study of the Record develops that most of the reputed great lawyers on the Republican side predicted that the bill would be found unconstitutional in very important respects, if not as a whole. Yet, after more than five years, not a single provision of that long and involved measure has been so held!

The Congressional Cavaliers' Chorus
Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, adopted the familiar tactics of declaring the measure worthless because it did not go far enough.

"The bill as it now stands," he said, "is based upon an erroneous theory of regulation from its very first provision to its last. It betrays a rare ignorance of the evils to be overcome and of the methods available to Congress in suppression."

Representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, with more frankness than was indulged in by these velvet-footed statesmen who professed fear of the bill's constitutionality, expressed the thought at the bottom of most opposition minds when he said:

"Not all men supporting this bill are socialists and anarchists, but every socialist and every anarchist does endorse this bill."

Representative McCall, of Massachusetts, put it thus:

"It is upon the advocates of this bill to show that we should set aside the American system of freight-rates, which has given us rates hardly half as high as are paid by the other great countries of the world, and that the railroads pay their labor twice the wages paid in other countries. Give us a reason why we should discard a system which has been a success for a system which has been a failure."

Representative Littlefield, of Maine: "I do not believe that a tribunal of seven men should be at one and the same time a detective agency, a prosecuting attorney, and a lord high executioner, even though railroads may be the subjects aimed at."

I have quoted indiscriminately from Democrats and Republicans alike, attempting to illustrate the variety of argument and innuendos adduced by the opposition.

So they talked, week after week; talked the winter away into the spring, the spring into the summer, bent on wearing out the President and smothering the bill.

One Man Against a System
But the one man who found himself matched against a system, welcomed the test. He took up the gauntlet and forced the fighting. He seized every advantage, drove his enemies out of one position after another, and gave a demonstration of staying quality that astounded the opposition. The redoubtable Senate machine was brought to realize that it had met a new kind of attack.

In this struggle time was on the side of Roosevelt, because he knew how to use it, and seemed incapable of weariness. The country came to his aid. The latent power of real but unorganized sentiment made itself felt. Commercial bodies, political organizations, and civic forces came forward to align themselves with the President. Senators were made to understand that the voters were looking on and "keeping tabs." Political careers were put in jeopardy. Constituencies fell afoul of their Senators; to gas began to slip away from shoulders that had long worn them in the proud confidence of secure possession. What was the use of beating Roosevelt if, in doing so, his enemies must meet their own destruction?

Thus statesmen began to consult the oracle of their personal ambitions, and as they interpreted its answer, they understood that their salvation was in lining up for the President's bill.

Desertions from the opposition began to be rumored, then confirmed. Defeat stared the Aldrich machine in the face. The day came when a

the bill came before the Senate, Mr. Aldrich, as leader, proclaimed his policy thus: "A majority of the Republican members of the committee did not join in favor of the report, for the reason that, in their judgment, an attempt should have been made to remedy obvious and admitted defects. Clear and adequate provision should have been made for subjecting the orders of the commission to judicial review."

Senator Scott, of West Virginia, declared that "a careful study of the railroad situation where government control obtains will show the evils resulting, and force the belief that governments cannot make rates that will meet the needs of trade and industry."

Senator Spooner, of Wisconsin, a very alert watchdog of the Constitution, declared:

"Many others think that the pending measure is in more than one respect of doubtful constitutionality. To my heart, I think I may justly say that many of us regard it as unconstitutional in one or two important particulars."

Senator Morgan, of Alabama, described the essential feature of the bill "as a direct assault upon the Constitution. It cannot succeed," he added, "unless it can ride down or evade the express provisions of the Constitution which define and protect the judicial powers of the courts, and all its important provisions are framed for this purpose."

That was the terrifying argument to which the measure's opponents were always turning. A study of the Record develops that most of the reputed great lawyers on the Republican side predicted that the bill would be found unconstitutional in very important respects, if not as a whole. Yet, after more than five years, not a single provision of that long and involved measure has been so held!

The Congressional Cavaliers' Chorus
Senator Clarke, of Arkansas, adopted the familiar tactics of declaring the measure worthless because it did not go far enough.

"The bill as it now stands," he said, "is based upon an erroneous theory of regulation from its very first provision to its last. It betrays a rare ignorance of the evils to be overcome and of the methods available to Congress in suppression."

Representative Sibley, of Pennsylvania, with more frankness than was indulged in by these velvet-footed statesmen who professed fear of the bill's constitutionality, expressed the thought at the bottom of most opposition minds when he said:

"Not all men supporting this bill are socialists and anarchists, but every socialist and every anarchist does endorse this bill."

Representative McCall, of Massachusetts, put it thus:

"It is upon the advocates of this bill to show that we should set aside the American system of freight-rates, which has given us rates hardly half as high as are paid by the other great countries of the world, and that the railroads pay their labor twice the wages paid in other countries. Give us a reason why we should discard a system which has been a success for a system which has been a failure."

Representative Littlefield, of Maine: "I do not believe that a tribunal of seven men should be at one and the same time a detective agency, a prosecuting attorney, and a lord high executioner, even though railroads may be the subjects aimed at."

I have quoted indiscriminately from Democrats and Republicans alike, attempting to illustrate the variety of argument and innuendos adduced by the opposition.

So they talked, week after week; talked the winter away into the spring, the spring into the summer, bent on wearing out the President and smothering the bill.

One Man Against a System
But the one man who found himself matched against a system, welcomed the test. He took up the gauntlet and forced the fighting. He seized every advantage, drove his enemies out of one position after another, and gave a demonstration of staying quality that astounded the opposition. The redoubtable Senate machine was brought to realize that it had met a new kind of attack.

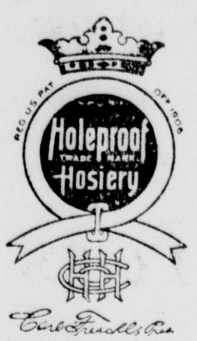

In this struggle time was on the side of Roosevelt, because he knew how to use it, and seemed incapable of weariness. The country came to his aid. The latent power of real but unorganized sentiment made itself felt. Commercial bodies, political organizations, and civic forces came forward to align themselves with the President. Senators were made to understand that the voters were looking on and "keeping tabs." Political careers were put in jeopardy. Constituencies fell afoul of their Senators; to gas began to slip away from shoulders that had long worn them in the proud confidence of secure possession. What was the use of beating Roosevelt if, in doing so, his enemies must meet their own destruction?

Thus statesmen began to consult the oracle of their personal ambitions, and as they interpreted its answer, they understood that their salvation was in lining up for the President's bill.

Desertions from the opposition began to be rumored, then confirmed. Defeat stared the Aldrich machine in the face. The day came when a

the bill came before the Senate, Mr. Aldrich, as leader, proclaimed his policy thus: "A majority of the Republican members of the committee did not join in favor of the report, for the reason that, in their judgment, an attempt should have been made to remedy obvious and admitted defects. Clear and adequate provision should have been made for subjecting the orders of the commission to judicial review."

Senator Foraker, of Ohio, a great lawyer and a leading force in the Senate, opposed all governmental rate-making whatever. He declared that this legislation was "so contrary to the spirit of our institutions, and of such drastic and revolutionary character, that the consequences are likely to be most unusual and far-reaching." He said that Congress did not have the power to do the thing which the bill proposed, and that it was most fortunate for the country that it did not. There was no necessity for such legislation, and it "had not one line in it that afforded any remedy whatever against the greatest and most serious evils that have been mentioned. If it does not fail and perish in the courts," he went on, "experience will shortly demonstrate the utter impracticability of rate-making by a commission." He predicted ruin to the railroads if the legislation should pass.

the bill. Then defeat was followed by panic, and panic degenerated into rout.

Roosevelt's victory was complete, sweeping. When the long-awaited hour came, with the final vote on the bill, Republicans and Democrats lined up together for it, and the roll-call showed a majority so large as to be all but unanimous! The men who did not dare to vote against the bill contented themselves by supporting it and uttering doleful prophecies of failure, which have not come true.

Thus was won the greatest victory of the Roosevelt administration. It was so complete that it seemed impossible for the opposition ever to pull itself together for a struggle to regain the lost ground.

But not so. Before two years had passed the same old enemies were again in the field for an effort to undo, by indirectness, the great achievement. Roosevelt was forced into a fight to save what he had won. The story of how the reactionary House leaders tried to starve the Dilliver-Hepburn law to death, by refusing appropriations for its enforcement, recalls one of his bitterest fights and most signal victories.

NO CASCARET USER EVER HAS HEADACHE

A 10 cent box will keep your liver, stomach and bowels clean, pure and fresh for months

—Sick headache, biliousness, dizziness, coated tongue, foul taste and your breath—always trace them to torpid liver, delayed fermenting food in the bowels or sour, gassy stomach. —Poisonous matter clogged in the intestines, instead of being cast out of the blood. When this poison reaches the delicate brain tissue it causes congestion and that dull, throbbing, sickening headache.

Salts, cathartic pills, oil and purgative waters force a passage way for a day or two—but they don't take the poisons out and have no effect upon the liver or stomach.

Cascarets immediately cleanse and regulate the stomach, remove the sour, undigested and fermenting food and foul gases, take the excess bile from the liver and carry out the system all the decomposed waste matter and poisons in the intestines and bowels.

A Cascaret tonight will surely straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist means inside cleanliness and a clear head for months. Ask any of the millions of "Cascaret" users if they ever have headache.

Grand Opera House

The one great end attained by E. Milton Royle in his play "The Squaw Man," which comes to the Grand Opera House March 5, is the bringing forward a new creation in the dramatic world. "Tabywana," the Ute chief, is one of those happy composite creations which strike a chord harmonizing with the universal heart. The pleasant environment and the exquisite natural dramatic treatment found in "The Squaw Man" stand out like a mosaic in the hands of Mr. Clarence Bennett. Miss Edna Marshall's performance of Lady Diana shows her exquisite and consummate art. Without, for an instant, losing the character of the refined noblewoman, she lets you see her suffering, her noble unselfish love and devotion, and the true woman's heart, that is broad enough and grand enough to reach beyond Class and Caste, even to the poor little savage mother, from the great wilds. It is this beautiful heart interest, growing out of a great, thrilling dramatic

Doings In Social and Club Circles

KANSAS GATHERING

Ladies of Kensington Society Have as Guests Old Friends of Sunflower State

On Friday last the ladies of the Kensington Society, composed of ladies of Santa Ana, Tustin, Garden Grove and Orange, held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Shriver, who are now living on East Collings avenue, Orange. The meeting was of special interest, the society ladies entertaining their husbands in honor of special guests, old neighbors and friends from Kansas who are here seeing and enjoying "Sunny Southern California."

Although early morning threatened rain this did not intimidate the Jayhawkers who have learned to love California showers. They continued to arrive at the Shriver home until the company numbered forty-three.

At noon the guests assembled in the large dining room where two long tables, generously loaded with many of California's good things, awaited them. The afternoon was devoted to social conversation and inquiries as to those less fortunate friends still remaining in the old home state of Kansas.

The visitors were Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Urschel, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Ayers, Mrs. Charlotte Godfrey, Mr. Joseph Weeks and Miss Della Weeks.

The company did not disband until late in the afternoon. The society will meet next month with Mrs. John Winters of Garden Grove.

At Newport Beach

Mrs. Nell Wilson and her daughters, Misses Leslie and Enid, Miss Margaret Bowen, Messrs. Roland and Hugh Roberts, went from here yesterday morning for a day at Newport Beach. They were joined there by Mrs. Louisa Perry and son, Harry Perry and Mr. and Mrs. C. E. King of Los Angeles. The day proved a pleasant one at the seaside and was greatly enjoyed by the party.

An Appreciated Courtesy

Realizing that the day was a disagreeable one in which to get about, Mrs. J. N. Anderson of Wellington avenue, sent hot coffee, steaming and delicious, to the teachers of Lincoln school today at noon. To say that the thoughtful courtesy was appreciated by the teachers thus unexpectedly remembered is putting it mildly. A toast was drunk to Mrs. Anderson in the aromatic coffee that had made the noon-day lunch doubly appetizing.

Commercial High Party

The Commercial High students had a party last Friday night in the Commercial building and a great time they had, too.

A committee consisting of Misses Willia Clevenger, Doris Robins, Ruby Holten, Eva Nininger, Messrs. Gale, Morrison, Jacobs and Davies, did the planning, and from the expressions of praise given them it looks very much as if no time was wasted in preparing the evening's entertainment.

The first part of the evening was taken up by a program, an orchestra furnishing the first two numbers, which were greatly enjoyed. Readings were given by Mrs. Baker, Miss Hazel Rees, and Chas. Deaver, Misses Edna Rossier and Willia Clevenger rendered pleasing piano selections. The treat of the evening was a Japanese song by Mr. Kawamura, who is attending the school. This brought "down the house" and Mr. Kawamura was forced to respond to an encore.

Different games were then enjoyed, after which adjournment was taken to the dining room where refreshments of sandwiches, pickles, olives and ice cream were served. After refreshments the teachers had to do their part, which was the telling of stories. The one telling the best story was rewarded with an extra dish of ice cream.

The affair was voted the best in the history of the school, and already the students are wishing for another "affair." At least seventy-five were present.

Dr. Knights at Long Beach

It was a matter of considerable surprise here when it became known that Professor George D. Knights of Redlands University had accepted a call to the pastorate of the First Baptist Church of Long Beach. He is to continue with the university this year, going to Long Beach on Fridays and remaining there until Monday morning. At the close of the college year he will move to Long Beach.

It will be remembered that Dr. Knights filled the pulpit of the First Baptist church in this city for a considerable time after the resignation of Dr. J. H. Garnett, coming down from Redlands for the Sunday service.

BIRTHDAY DINNER

Violets Used Generally in Pretty Dinner for Two Popular Young Ladies

Misses Leslie Smith and Robbie Jones were guests of honor at a six-thirty o'clock dinner Saturday evening, given at the Geo. A. Whidden home, 518 South Main, by Misses Mayme Brightwell, Inez and Lotta Cloyes, Suzanne Claycomb and Hattie Whidden.

The decorations, which were suggestive of spring, consisted in a centerpiece of violets and two small streamers suspended from the chandelier, with a violet peeping through here and there, while cards bearing violet designs marked the places of the honorees. Shamrock-shaded candles shed a soft glow over the table, while the honored guests had tiny, individual candles at their places. Nicknames were used on the dainty violet place cards instead of the guests' names. Much merriment was afforded by the witty toasts found concealed in the individual cakes which were also in shamrock shape. While each limerick was being read the others guessed whom the "hit" was intended for.

The invited list included Mesdames E. S. Sprague and Herbert Rankin; Misses Robbie Jones, Leslie Smith, Alice Trickey, Esther Patterson, Laura Fenstermacher, Bernice and Mary Shrewsbury, Caroline and Elizabeth Eagleson, Mary Wood, Velda Medlock, Mary Smart, Blanche McDowell, Bess Lewis, Bess Hill, Lotta and Inez Cloyes, Mayme Brightwell, Suzanne Claycomb and Hattie Whidden.

SUBWAY PLAN IS DISCUSSED

Considerable interest has been created here by a report published in the Los Angeles Times Sunday morning to the effect that there is a plan afoot to build a subway on East Fourth street. John Beatty and N. A. Ulin, president and secretary of the Manufacturers Association, state that they know nothing of the plan and that the matter had not been brought up at any of the meetings of the directors of the association. They are of the opinion that the matter was given publicity through some Los Angeles source.

The article follows:
SANTA ANA, March 2—A movement started to have the Chamber of Commerce, Merchants & Manufacturers' Association, together with the mayor and city trustees, take up the matter of putting in a subway under the railway tracks of the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific on the crossing on Fourth street.

Such subway is intended to accommodate the Pacific Electric with a double track, the public a traffic driveway on each side of the car lines, and side walks.

This will make it possible for the Pacific Electric to build a belt line on the square to Orange, and extend the Fourth street line to Tustin and the Irvine ranch, to the harbor southeast of Balboa.

There are matters of detail in regard to the right-of-way and franchise to be taken up between the parties interested.

Much of the lands east of the proposed subway site have been quietly optioned, and purchased by people from outside, and local men, who have been advised in regard to the development that is to take place, have taken up options on walnut ranches that are suitable for subdivisions.

With the Pacific Electric line to the Orange County Park, and south through the canyon, this will be the most desirable show district in all Southern California.

LITTLE OVER HALF AN INCH

Hopes High for Enough Rain
Tonight to Make Storm
Satisfying

Justin Copeland's gauge on Sycamore street shows .54 inch of rain since yesterday. The measurement was taken at 12 o'clock. This makes .74 inch, counting Friday's rain.

Hopes are high for a good rain tonight. Word from the San Joaquin ranchhouse is that for the benefit of the bean crop there ought to be fully two inches of rain now with an inch or more later in the season.

According to S. Hill & Son's gauge the rain for last night up to 8 o'clock this morning was .40 inch. That gauge showed .21 for the Friday rain, making .61 in. for the storm up to this morning.

Every part of the county is rejoicing over the moisture, which, coming slowly, has soaked into the thirsty earth.

The sugar beet factories in particular appreciate the rain, for they were on the anxious seat. While arrangements had been made to irrigate a large acreage, there was much of the acreage that could not be reached by streams from pumping plants and artesian wells. This rain not only helps the growing crop of sugar beets, but will give opportunity for further planting for sugar beets that will mature late in the campaign.

The bean growers are as happy as any set of farmers in the county. Plowing had thrown the land up in huge clods that could not be broken by rolling and harrowing. It took a rain to give the bean men a chance to get their land in shape, to say nothing of the great necessity of getting moisture under the surface, to be kept there by the pulverizing and working of the surface. Planting comes in May. Many of the San Joaquin ranchers have been contemplating changing their crop from lima beans to black-eye beans, but this rain looks mighty good to them. They want the storm to bring two inches of rain.

The rain came too late to save all of the barley crop. Two ranchers talking today said that there would be about half a crop of hay in the county. There will be quite a little planting as soon as this rain is over.

Cabbage and all other crops will be greatly helped by the rain. In the mountains and hills the fall has been heavier than in the valley, and pasturage and wild flowers will be made to do a greater share in contributing to the 1912 prosperity of Orange county. While the bees have been at work and had not suffered up to this time, for the foothill region had a greater fall in the early rains than did the valley, this rain is looked upon by apiarists as their salvation. Had there been no good rain comparatively soon, it was their judgment that the bees would have to be fed instead of being able to produce.

FIVE MILLION VALUE OF RAIN TO SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—Fifteen thousand dollars a minute is the estimated value of the rains to Southern California in the last five hours, it being estimated that the aggregate value is five million dollars. An inch and a half of precipitation was recorded here between 5 and 10 o'clock a. m. The downpour was increasing in volume at that hour. Street car service is hampered, telephones are demoralized, and the streets resemble rivers.

Pasadena has already had 1.70 inches of rain for the storm and rain is still falling. 1.10 inch of rain for the storm has fallen in Ontario and hay crops will be greatly benefited. .50 inch of rain has fallen in San Diego in the last twenty-four hours, with more predicted.

Ventura has had more than an inch of rain in the last ten hours. Beans are reported as safe. Two millions of dollars of benefit will result to Ventura county. In Santa Barbara 1.62 inch of rain has fallen in the last ten hours.

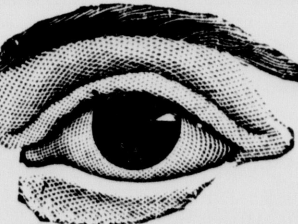

Riverside had 20 inch of rain during the night and more is predicted. San Bernardino had .31 inch rainfall during the night. Heavy snows have fallen in the mountains.

FINE SHOWING AT FULLERTON

Lots of Building Going on and Everything Points to Prosperity

FULLERTON, March 4.—Fullerton has been making an exceptionally good showing in the last few months, and even in the first two months of this year the amount issued for building permits is extremely good. For the two months of January and February there have been permits to the extent of $2,240 issued. During the month of January there were $16,600 in permits issued and in February $8,640 issued. In February the building is necessarily lighter than in January, but very good at that as it shows a prosperous condition of affairs.

Among the improvements there are two additions to packing houses which have been called for by the increase in the amount of produce handled from this point. The character of the dwellings being erected is very good, nearly half being between $2000 and $3000.

The growth that Fullerton is now enjoying is wholly normal and if anything not as much as could reasonably be expected from the conditions that prevail in this vicinity. The land is of the best and it is known that the best oranges raised come from this section.

The development of oil in the nearby foothills is bound to have an influence on adding business and improvement to this section. With the discovery of this oil even in the city limits, it will bring a great deal of capital to this city. It is said that the Standard Oil Co. expects to have as high as 600 men in this field inside of a year. This will bring many new families to Fullerton. With the new houses that have been built lately, it is easily figured that an increase of 500 has already been added to this city's population. The list of the building permits for January and February, through the courtesy of J. A. Schumacker, building superintendent, is as follows:

Piles Cured in 6 to 14 Days
—Your druggist will refund money if Pazo Ointment fails to cure any case of Itching, Blind, Bleeding or Protruding Piles in 6 to 14 days. 50c.

MAN OF AFFAIRS TO SETTLE HERE

FULLERTON, March 4.—Word has been received by P. A. Schumacker that H. C. Hallett, ex-mayor of Northampton, Mass., will soon move his family from that city and make Fullerton his future home.

Fullerton should be congratulated on securing a man of such means as Mr. Hallett to live in this city, as he is a man of affairs, and appreciates the opportunities of development offered in this city, and also the desirability for a home.

Mr. Hallett is a millionaire manufacturer of machinery for flour mills and for roller systems. This business is located in San Francisco, but although he will continue in this business, he and his family will make Fullerton his future home.

We are building up a good business by doing good work and giving a square deal. The People's New Laundry, 901 East Fifth Street.

We make to order all kinds of gates for wood or cement ditches and stand-pipes; tappons and tubes for earth ditches. Most of these things are kept in stock.

CENTRAL TRACT SITE WINS IN HOT CONTEST FOR THE POLYTECHNIC HIGH SCHOOL

FULLERTON, March 4.—The election held in the Fullerton Union High School district last Saturday to determine the location of the new polytechnic high school, was a vote of 877 in favor of the Central tract and 392 in favor of the Krug site, giving the Central site a margin of 31 over the necessary two-thirds majority required to change the location.

The final effort of the business men in Fullerton on last Friday to secure the building for the Central tract by donating the two and one-half acres adjoining the Central tract on the north, was the factor which swung the election. These business men donated an amount of about $3500 to put the building on the Central tract, which is five blocks from town, while the Krug tract was a little over a mile from town. The interest in the outside towns was not so intense as it was at Fullerton.

TALKED SITES FOR BUILDING

ANAHEIM, March 4.—The Eboli Society held a very interesting meeting Saturday afternoon in the Odd Fellows' Hall with a fairly good attendance. The rain, however, kept a good many away.

After a short paper on Economics by Miss May McKinley of Los Angeles, which was enjoyed by all, a question box with questions was opened on economics.

The committee which was appointed at the last monthly meeting for the selection of sites for the new Eboli Club House reported that they had had several offers and these were submitted. They said that more sites were to be offered and that they wished more time. They will report at the next monthly meeting. The sentiment expressed Saturday was divided as to the location, some wanting a site in the business section, while others desired a site in a more quiet place.

The discussion of the building which was informal seemed to be that the lot should not cost over $2000 and the Club House should cost about $8000 or $10,000, something that would be a credit to the town and to the club. The movement was just started at the last monthly meeting when a number of state officers were present. The committee in charge of sites is the Misses Janss, Zeus and Kemper. A bazaar was decided upon for next November so that the proceeds could be turned in for a club house. The date is set ahead so that plenty of time will be had in preparing for it.

OLINDA TEAM HAS LOST TWO PLAYERS

OLINDA, March 4.—The ball game with Pomona yesterday afternoon was called off on account of the rain. A game has been arranged for next Sunday with the Jose Villas of Los Angeles, to be played at that city.

During the last week there have been two of Olinda's best men put out of the game. Larsen, who has been playing both infield and outfield, lost the sight of one of his eyes last week.

Capt. Isabel will be out of the game for a while at least, with water on the knee. He hurt his knee about five or six years ago, and in the first game played of the recent Anaheim-Olinda series he hurt it again, and since then it has been getting worse, until he was ordered by the doctor to stay out entirely.

The doctor said if he was careful he might be back after a while. Isabel is a fast, heady player, and his loss will be badly felt.

NOTICE
We pay 3c per pound at this office for clean cotton rags suitable for wiping presses, etc.

Santa Ana Painless Dentists. 102 1/2 East Fourth St. Main 253

The results for each district was as follows:

Fullerton—Central, 565; Krug, 101.
Olinda—Central, 99; Krug, 67.
Brea or Randolph—Central, 72; Krug, 6.
Placentia—Central, 58; Krug, 151.
Orange—Central, 40; Krug, 38.
La Habra—Central, 43; Krug, 27.

By these results it is seen that the only district voting strongly in favor of the Krug site was Placentia, which gave nearly one hundred majority in favor of the Krug site. The main objection to the Central tract up until Friday was that of size, and so after the citizens in Fullerton got together and donated the extra piece of land, it undoubtedly swung the election from a majority in favor of the Krug to the Central.

Nothing has been stated for sure as yet, but it is presumed work will commence at once on the construction of the buildings.

LARSEN OF OLINDA MAY LOSE AN EYE

ANAHEIM, March 4.—Harold Larsen, a member of the Olinda ball team, will probably lose the sight of one of his eyes from a thorn from an orange limb that flew back, the thorn piercing his eye. He was working in the orchard at the time, driving a team. He was removed to the Anaheim Sanitarium and the doctors say that he has a bare chance of saving his sight, but the wound is very severe.

ANAHEIM BASEBALL TEAM IS WINNER

ANAHEIM, March 4.—The Anaheim baseball team defeated the Clark Colts of Los Angeles, yesterday afternoon on the local grounds, by the score of 8 to 2. The Anaheim team played good ball yesterday, and at no time was it in danger. Messenkamp pitched very well yesterday. Owing to the rainy weather there was not a very good crowd present. No game has been arranged for next Sunday.

The lineup for the game yesterday was:

Clark Colts	P	Messenkamp
Crossman	C	Gerken
Price	1B	Hendricks
Harkness	2B	Fischer
Church	3B	Miller
Murray	SS	Saddler
Owens	LF	Golden
Morrissey	RF	Perkins
Scotty	CF	Huntington

Summary: Stolen bases—Saddler, Gerken, Messenkamp. Two base hits—Owens, Saddler. Sacrifice hits—Golden, Cunningham. One double play by Fischer. Scorer—Westerman.

A NARROW ESCAPE IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Anaheim Plain Dealer: Hogan McBride and wife and their guest, Mrs. Bartley, narrowly escaped death while driving to Anaheim Monday in the McBride automobile, the machine overturning in the ditch near the scene of the recent fatal McFadden accident between Anaheim and Fullerton, and all the members of the party sustaining sprains and bruises. Mrs. Bartley was the most severely injured in this respect. She was caught under the automobile as it turned over, while Mr. and Mrs. McBride were thrown clear of it. The machine had to be raised before Mrs. Bartley could be released.

Mr. McBride was driving about 15 miles an hour behind another automobile south from Fullerton when the forward machine suddenly stopped. Mr. McBride was confronted under the circumstances with necessity to either take the ditch or plunge into the car ahead. He took the ditch, the car turning over. When he got to his feet after being thrown headlong from the car, the man ahead who had been the cause of the accident, was pulling out, entirely ignoring the plight of the people behind him. There was not even time for the latter to get the number of the fellow, and nothing has yet been ascertained as to his identity. In local automobile history there is nothing quite paralleling the selfishness and brutality of the unknown driver, who would deserve tar and feathers if caught.

FULLERTON HIGH DEFEATED COVINA

FULLERTON, March 4.—The Fullerton high school baseball team defeated the Covina team Saturday afternoon on the Covina grounds by the score of 4 to 2. The game was very good and very interesting. Covina led off with a run in the first inning. It was not until the fourth that Fullerton lead the score. In the seventh, however, three runs were brought in, which clinched the game for the locals. The Covina team attempted to rally in the last of the ninth, and were successful in bringing in one tally.

SERVICE FOR THE Y. M. C. A.

Association Expects to Have 250 Members by the First of April

Platform Service Last Evening
Told of Achievements and Hopes of Y.M.C.A.

A special service in connection with the local Y.M.C.A. was held at the Congregational church last evening. Owing to the inclement weather there was a comparatively small congregation present, but all who were in attendance were amply repaid for their presence. The speakers of the evening were Robert J. Hamilton, the county secretary; Charles Robinson, president; Loren Mead, chairman of the membership committee, and Malcolm Tedford. Several in the congregation were called upon to express their views, to which they heartily responded.

Mr. Hamilton gave an outline of the association's work, and in order to impress upon the minds of the people present the necessity of a Y.M.C.A. as an aid to character building, read some interesting stories.

One of these stories had its origin in a small town in one of the middle states, where a board of trustees was considering whether to make an appropriation for the provision of an ambulance to be placed at the foot of a precipice near the town to take care of the injured as they fell from the road above.

One of the trustees was a little more thoughtful than the others and he suggested that instead of providing an ambulance at the foot of the precipice, they erect a fence at the edge to prevent persons from going over. This was done, and needless to say, they soon found that the ambulance was not needed. And so it is with the Y.M.C.A.

Appropriations are often made for the provision or extension of jails, reformatory schools, and other institutions for caring for the unfortunate who have fallen, instead of for institutions such as the Y.M.C.A. to prevent them from falling.

Charles Robinson gave a talk about the work so far accomplished by the association in the city, and also mentioned a few needs, among these being the support of the business men of Santa Ana, which would be a material help to the association. Malcolm Tedford told how the Y.M.C.A. had helped him in his daily life, since he joined and also spoke of the Young Men's Bible class which has kept faithfully together for four years, and which became the nucleus of the present organization. Loren Mead concluded the speaking of the evening by stating that anyone who wished to become a member should in some way communicate with him and he would call and would be glad to fill out the necessary membership card. The membership roll is on the steady increase and it ought to reach the 250 mark by April 1.

AT THE COURTHOUSE

AGAIN TRYING OVERFLOW SUIT

Selection of Jury to Hear
House's Action of $6825
Damages Begun

Advice Given by Purse-Snatcher Worked Harm for the One Who Took it

Today the second trial of E. L. House's suit against the Pacific Electric for $6825 damages was begun in the superior court. The case was tried on July 30 and Aug. 1 and 2 of 1911, and the jury failed to agree on a verdict, making a new trial necessary.

House's suit is one of several brought against the railway as the result of overflow damage on Jan. 1, 1910. It is alleged that the P. E. bridge across the Santa Ana river above Fifth street was responsible for the overflow, in that debris lodged against the piles and turned the current out of the river channel. A large body of water broke over to the east, where the track-bed formed an embankment that carried the water eastward to a point near the corner of Sullivan and West Fifth streets, where the water broke over and went south.

In its course southward, House's ranch on Sullivan street was reached, and House asserts that his celery, alfalfa, vegetable and berry crops were ruined and many young trees uprooted, and that gullies were cut in his land and a deposit of undesirable sediment left upon his land. The total of damage alleged is $7825.

Scarborough & Forgy are attorneys for the plaintiff and J. W. McKinley of Los Angeles, and Williams & Rutan of Santa Ana are for the defendant. The selection of a jury began this morning at 10 o'clock.

Took Bad Advice
If Francisco Alois had any chance of getting probation from Judge West, he spoiled that chance by heeding the advice of Antonio Montez, a purse-snatcher. Montez told Alois to swear that he was under 18 years of age, and as a juvenile he would get off easily. Alois did as he was advised, but this morning the proof of the falsehood was produced in the testimony of Juan Ramirez, a Los Angeles Spaniard, who testified that he had cared for Alois when he was a boy and that he knew Alois to be almost 21.

Alois was sentenced to four years in San Quentin. He pleaded guilty to stealing $260 from his friend, Joe Morales, of Fullerton. He spent $120 before he was caught at San Bernardino.

Montez was sentenced to six years in Folsom. The purpose of the order sending Montez to Folsom and Alois to San Quentin was to separate them.

Montez was far from pleased with his sentence. When Judge West told him that the court could send him to prison for a term of ten years, Montez said:

"You might as well kill me." This remark is taken to mean that he wanted to say that he would as soon be killed as go to prison for a long term.

The judge made the term six years. Montez was tried by a jury and convicted of snatching a purse from the hand of Miss Callie McCullom of Orange as she and her mother and sister were walking on East Fourth street, Santa Ana, on the evening of Nov. 30. Montez ran across the P. E. freight yard and was caught at Third street by the Neal brothers.

Interlocutory Decree
An interlocutory decree of divorce was granted this morning to Annie Westlake of Santa Ana against Robert Westlake of Santa Ana.

Word Not Used
Before the petition of G. W. Etchison to withdraw from the bond of W. M. Ward as director of the Newbert Protection District was filed, one word was stricken out of the petition on the request of the petitioner, Etchison. That word was the word "violent." Etchison's reason for asking permission to withdraw from the bond was that Ward had taken a dislike to him. As the petition was first drawn the dislike was described as a "violent dislike." On Etchison's request the county clerk struck the word violent from the petition.

Says Not Guilty
C. R. Peabody, formerly teacher at Magnolia school, west of Anaheim, today pleaded not guilty to the charge of felonious assault upon one of his pupils, a 15-year-old girl, and his trial was set for April 8 at 10 o'clock. Peabody's attorney is Clyde Bishop.

ROOSEVELT'S ROAST TODAY

Scores Associated Press for False Statement—Johnson
Outlines Issue

NEW YORK, March 4.—A flat declaration that the Associated Press, through its Washington bureau, had deliberately faked the statement that he had promised to support President Taft for a second term, with a denial that he had ever promised to do so, is included in a letter from Col. Roosevelt to Editor Van Valkenburg of the Philadelphia North American printed tonight by the Evening Sun. In the letter, which the Sun prints in full, V. S. McClatchy, editor, and Frank Noyes, editor of the Washington Star, and president of the Associated Press are referred to, Col. Roosevelt stating that those men were apparently misinformed. Referring to the reports that he had promised Taft not to run the letter says:

"The simple fact is those stories are deliberate inventions. I first thought the stories were given out by the White House, but I am now assured they were gotten up and given over by the Associated Press to White House representatives." The letter continued: "I wish Noyes as president of the Associated Press to know that that story was not a misunderstanding, and was not based on misinformation, but was a deliberate invention made out of whole cloth without a particle of basis beyond the imagination of the men writing it."

GOV. JOHNSON SAYS ISSUE PEOPLE VS. OFFICEHOLDERS

BLUE CANYON, Cal., March 4.—"The vice presidential matter is so remote that I do not bother about it at all," said Gov. Johnson of entering the state on the Overland Limited, after his Eastern trip, this morning. "I would be wanting in frankness if I pretended I would not like to hold the second highest office in the land, but the matter has not troubled me yet."

He summed up his idea of the presidential situation in the East by saying that Col. Roosevelt is an overwhelmingly popular favorite.

"The presidential issue is now clean cut," said Gov. Johnson. "The people are for Roosevelt, and the federal officeholders for Taft. The question is whether public sentiment can overcome the office-holding power in the national convention. The people of Massachusetts are demanding the presidential preference primary, but the politicians favoring President Taft are denying it. In New York a hybrid primary law prevents popular expression."

IN THE JUSTICE'S COURT

MEXICANS FLED AS POLICEMAN APPEARED

Sunday morning Policeman Lacy interrupted a fracas in the bobo-pen back of the city jail. Three or four Mexicans ran, leaving another Mexican in a dazed condition and bleeding from a wound over the eye. Lacy and Policemen Ryan and Gilbert rounded up four Mexicans and put them in the county jail.

The injured man said that the others had held him up and robbed him. He was not clear in his statements. County Physician Wehrly took care of the injured man. His injury is not serious.

Case Is Dismissed
Concluding that he lacked sufficient evidence to convict the man, Deputy District Attorney Koepsel today dismissed the case against Bernabe Pimental, charged with bicycle-stealing.

Shirley Coming
Justice Shirley is to sit in Justice Cox's court on March 12 and hear the evidence in the suit of James Gillespie for $299 damages. The suit is against James Seeley, who struck Gillespie over the head with a club. Justice Cox will visit an old comrade in Los Angeles on that day. He heard the evidence in the preliminary examination of Seeley, and considered himself disqualified to hear the civil suit growing out of the same matter.
